The New English Lutheran Church Structure.

An Illustration of the Magnificent Place of Worship.

The Formal Dedication to Take Place Tomorrow Morning.

Program of the Dedication Exercises and the Other Services.

A Complete and Accurate Description of the Impositing Edifice—A Credit to the Congregation and a Magnificent Architectural Ornament to the City.

From Saturday's Daily.

Sunday will be an eventful day among the church people of this city and vicinity, which will attract hundreds of people to the new Trinity English Lutheran church, which magnificent and imposing structure will be formally dedicated at the morning service. Rev. Dr. Wolf will preach the dedication sermon. At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon children's service will be held. In the evening Rev. Dr. Rhodes will preach.

Children under thirteen years of age are requested not to attend the morning service as it is the wish of the church officials to accommodate as large a number of persons of adult age with seats as possible. The services in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock are designed expressly for the children.

A NOBLE STRUCTURE.

The new Trinity church, to be dedicated tomorrow, adds another noble structure to the church buildings of Canton. The architecture is unique, and cannot be described by any comparison with any other church in our city. The Gothic ideal has been adhered to from foundation stone to turret. There is, perhaps, no more purely Gothic structure in the State; and, as shown by the accompanying cut, is certainly a model of architectural beauty. The extreme dimensions are 120x72 feet. When the chapel is added, which, it is understood, the congregation intends doing in the near future, the completed structure will extend from Tuscarawas to Fifth street.

The furnishing and decoration of the interior is strikingly beautiful. Instead of the usual pulpit platform, the church has an imposing chancel, characteristic of liturgical churches, with a sweeping arch supported by fluted columns. In the rear of the chancel is the altar, and back and above it is the magnificent memorial window, the gift of Mr. G. D. Harter and wife. Of this window the Buffalo Times says:

MEMORIAL WINDOW.

"Messrs. Booth & Riester have just finished one of the most artistic church windows that have ever been made in this city. It is constructed of 1,500 pieces of various kinds of stained and ornamental glass, and numerous jewels. It is a chancel window to be placed in the English Lutheran Trinity church of Canton, Ohio. The design was made by the firm. The entire window has a dimension of 10x21 feet. The top has a representation of the Trinity, while the sides contain various emblems and ornamental designs of stained glass. It is the center section, which is 4x14 feet, upon which the principal work has been concentrated. This section represents Christ blessing little children. It is said that there is not a single church window in this city equal to it."

In the eastern side of the church is another memorial window, the tribute of the Woman's Missionary Society of the church to the memory of Mrs. Caroline Meyer. It is a figure of St. Cecilia and has received high praise from competent critics.

Just about a year and a half was consumed in building the church. The corner stone was laid September 15, 1885. The cost of the structure is difficult to arrive at, as many of its most costly features are due to private benevolence.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE.

During the month of August, of 1885, the Building Committee of Trinity Lutheran church, of Canton, consisting of Messrs. George D. Harter, Isaac Harter, John B. Brothers, H. K. Jones and John H. Lehman, invited architects to submit competition drawings for a new church edifice, certain requirements being asked for. There were about five sets of drawings handed to the committee, that is, two sets from Akron and one, each, from Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Alliance. After the drawings were examined by one of them Mr. George D. Harter left on a trip to Europe and Mr. John Buckius was selected to fill Mr. Harter's place in the Building Committee. At the next meeting the design submitted by Mr. Guy Tilden then of Alliance, but now permanently located in this city, was accepted, there being no difference of opinion among the members of the committee. It also transpired that before leaving for Europe Mr. George D. Harter had examined the different drawings, and he was also convinced of the superiority of Mr. Tilden's design, and addressed a letter to the committee to that effect. It is now claimed that the design of Mr. Tilden was far superior to any other one submitted both in arrangement, architectural effect, heating, ventilation and lighting.

The design is Gothic, pure and simple to the smallest detail and at the same time it is a marked change from the stereotyped Gothic church so frequently met with. It was designed with the idea in view of soon building.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL ROOM

In the rear and connecting it with the main building, The Sunday School portion will quite likely be built next season.

The main building is 120 feet long and when the Sunday School part is added will extend from Tuscarawas to Fifth street. The width at the transept is 70 feet, and the tower is 100 feet high, from the ground line. The exterior is made of Massillon sandstone, the body being range ashlar, laid up in narrow courses and left rough or rock face. The trimmings are all neatly cut and show off in very pleasing effect. The roofs are covered with black slate, the gutters, valleys, finials, etc., are of heavy sheet copper and the ridge is terra cotta. The whole from the bottom of the foundation to the top of the finial has been built thoroughly and substantially, and it is evident that the architect has, in designing this beautiful edifice, demonstrated, that a building to be architecturally a success must not of necessity consist of a jumbled up

HOURS OF LEISURE.

Notable Places of Resort in the Early Days of Canton.

A sheet of water known as "The Pond," in the northeastern part of the city, containing from twenty to twenty-five acres, was quite a place of resort for skating in winter and fishing in summer. On Sundays and moonlight nights great crowds of boys and young men would assemble there and enjoy a carnival of sport. In the skating season "shiny" was the great game on ice. This pond has entirely disappeared. Where the cotton wood tree so long stood sentinel was the last place any portion of the pond could be seen. The Pennsylvania avenue sewer has since kept the grounds completely drained.

The "Blue Hole" was the popular swimming place for the boys of Canton sixty years ago. It was in east Nimitz shillen creek, near the foot of Lafayette street. At the time of which we write the streams were much larger and deeper than at the present day. This is accounted for by the cultivation of the soil, more of the rainfall being absorbed by the earth. The "blue hole," so designated by reason of the blue appearance of the water, was from twenty to thirty yards wide, fifty yards long and from six to eight feet deep. It bears no sort of resemblance to day with its appearance in former years. The bank on the north side was abrupt, and from this side several planks were fixed from which the boys would jump into the hole, some head foremost, diving under the water and coming up rods away; others, with a somersault, came down the south side and a gradual slope into the water, and as it was covered with a deep sand, it afforded an admirable place for ground and lofty tumbling.

At that time there was a daily line of four horse post coaches running east and west from Canton. In the season for bathing the stage horses were taken almost daily to the blue hole to be washed and their swimming afforded rare sport for the boys, two or three on the back and as many holding on to the mane and tail.

There was an excellent spring of water on the north bank, near where Cherry street strikes the creek, around which the boys delighted to linger. That spring, if it still exists, has lost its attraction.

The Mineral Spring in the Cedar Swamp, was not the least attractive place in or around town in former years. All that land lying west of Union street, and extending to the creek, was a swamp, and went by the name of Cedar Swamp, though the timber growth was chiefly tamarack. The spring was a few rods west of the paper mill. From where the path leading to it, left the high ground, it was laid with slabs. The water of the spring bubbled up from a bed of clear white sand, had a light blue appearance and a metallic taste. There was a legend, obtained by Jerry Lind from a Mohican Indian, that the water of this spring was wonderful to cure some ailments of the human system, but what that particular ailment was, had been forgotten, at least, no two agreed upon the name of the complaint, but upon general principles all united in the belief that the water of this mineral spring was whole some to drink—and accordingly all classes of the town on summer Sundays after spending an hour or two in the graveyard on Plum street, decapitating the German septuagenarian and meditating over the grave of Capes, the soldier of the Revolution, they would repair to the mineral spring and quaff its waters by the aid of a leaf. If the idea of converting the swamp into a park should be carried out, it will pay to restore the mineral spring.

Captain Mitchell, of the bark Antoine Sals, New York and Havana trade, came home in May, entirely helpless with rheumatism. He went to the mountains, but receiving no benefit, at his wife's request, began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. He immediately began to improve; in two months his rheumatism was all gone, and he sailed in command of his vessel a well man. Hood's Sarsaparilla will help you. Sold by all druggists.
